

You can enter up to five images, from one or more of the following categories.

1. Digital Images These are images that have been produced with the aid of a computer. They can only be submitted by email. Submitted images should be .jpg format for side-by-side parallel viewing. They can be any aspect ratio, but should not include any black borders. File size is limited to 6 Mbytes. Advice on correctly adjusting images can be found on the Society website by following the home page blue link 'Exhibitions/Competition' and then viewing Mike Hillyard's article. This section is divided into six subject headings marked u to z:

u. People, Pets, and Domestic Animals, v. Scenery, w. Buildings Inside and Out, x. Creative and Imaginative Images, y. Man Made Objects, z. Natural History

2. Common Theme Images You have the choice of entering up to 4 digital images on a common theme, such as a feature of life today, a noteworthy event, or perhaps how something is achieved photographically. These images are judged together as a group and given a single mark based on how interesting the selectors found the entry. They also count as a SINGLE IMAGE from the point of view of an entry, so you may submit FOUR further images for the competition in the digital images sections. You are invited to write briefly on the chosen subject, relating this subject to the individual images. This will be sent to the selectors.

Conditions of entry

All members of the Stereoscopic Society are eligible to enter. Entry is free

Acknowledgement of a received entry and the results will be done by e-mail.

Entries submitted must be the work of the entrant. Entrants may not use the same images used in previous competitions, even if the format is changed. e.g. slides to a digital image. Any subject matter is acceptable, but judges will be looking for imaginative quality images which, in their opinion, are enhanced by being stereoscopic.

For this year, because of Covid and the need to sterilise parcels and their contents only images received by email will be accepted. For this year no entries of prints, slides or digital images received on disk are accepted.

It is assumed that the permission is given to reproduce accepted entries for non-commercial purposes associated with the Society, and the International Stereoscopic Union, unless the box on the entry form is ticked. This possibly could include an ISU CODE show, which will be put on YouTube. Copyright, however, remains with the photographer.

In view of meeting cancellations an online version of the final show is being considered.

The competition will be judged by selectors receiving the digital entries independently and awarding marks. The marks will be sent to the Competition Secretary, who will then add the marks together and work out possible winners, runners up and commended images. The final judged results will be decided by an online meeting between the selectors and the Competition Secretary. The accepted entries will hopefully be shown in a digital projection show at Coventry and the London meetings, and a shortened version during the Annual Convention.

To make the presentations more interesting, you are invited to send brief notes covering points of interest, such as where and how the photographs were taken. Such material would not be presented to the selectors, but used for the shows.

The 2021 panel of selectors are:

Andrew Hurst (chairman)

Barry Aldous

Ray McMillan
